2 DEFENDANTS RYAN CARROLL; MAX K. DAY; MAX O. DAY; MICHAEL 3 DAY; YAX ECOMMERCE LLC; PRECISION TRADING GROUP, LLC; and 4 WA DISTRIBUTION LLC, and hereby files Jurisdictional Defendants' Reply in
5 Support of Motion for Leave to Release Funds (“Motion”) and respectfully shows
6 the Court as follows:
7

10 MEMORANDUM AND POINTS OF AUTHORITIES

11 1. Plaintiffs’ Response amounts to twenty-four (24) pages of unsubstantiated and 12 conclusory allegations, along with a fair amount of hearsay. The only “evidence” put 13 forward in the Response is the declaration of Nico Banks (“Mr. Banks”). See Dkt.
14 158-1, Declaration of Nico Banks Supporting Plaintiffs’ Opposition to Jurisdictional 15 Defendants’ Motion for Leave to Release Funds (“Declaration”). Most of the 16 information contained in Mr. Banks’ Declaration is inadmissible under the Federal 17 Rules of Evidence. The Declaration is composed largely of 1) information that is not 18 within the personal knowledge of Mr. Banks and, 2) hearsay that he presents to show
19 the truth of the matter asserted. FED. R. EVID. 801(C). Paragraphs 1-5 each contain 20 assertions of which Mr. Banks has no personal knowledge. Paragraphs 6 and 7
21 exhibit screenshots of emails highlighted by Mr. Banks to show the truth of the 22 matter(s) asserted. Paragraphs 8-14 all contain assertions of which Mr. Banks has no
23
25
26
27
28

1 personal knowledge. Paragraph 18 references hearsay emails with Tacy Zysk that
2 are offered to show the truth of the matter(s) asserted.

3
4 2. Accordingly, Jurisdictional Defendants ask that the court strike and/or 5 disregard paragraphs 1-14 and 18 of Mr. Banks' Declaration as inadmissible under 6 the Federal Rules of Evidence.

7
8 3. The precedent cited by Plaintiffs relies heavily on litigation involving the 9 Federal Trade Commission ("FTC") and the Securities Exchange Commission
10 ("SEC"), both federal agencies. Each of these cases is distinguishable. Plaintiffs 11 have raised none of the claims upon which these decisions are based. See S.E.C. v.
12 Quinn, 997 F.2d 287 (7th Cir. 1993) (Claims based on international securities fraud);
13 Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n v. Noble Metals Int'l, Inc., 67 F.3d 766 (9th
14 Cir. 1995) (Claims based on 7 U.S.C.S. § 6); F.T.C. v. World Wide Factors, Ltd.,
15 882 F.2d 344 (9th Cir. 1989) (15 U.S.C.S. § 45); Fed. Trade Comm'n v. Noland, 16 475 F. Supp. 3d 992 (D. Ariz. 2020) (Allegation of an illegal pyramid scheme, 17 which are generally prosecuted under the Federal Trade Commission Act); F.T.C. v.
18 Ideal Fin. Sols., Inc., No. 2:13-CV-00143-JAD-GW, 2014 WL 4541191 (D. Nev.
19 Sept. 9, 2014) (Allegations that defendants taken money from consumers' bank 20 accounts or billed consumers' credit cards without knowledge, consent or notice);
21 Fed. Trade Comm'n v. Automators LLC, No. 23-CV-1444-BAS-LSC, 2023 WL
22 6373069 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 11, 2023) (Violations of the Federal Trade Commission 23 Act and the Consumer Review Fairness Act).

1 4. Plaintiffs further cite filings in multiple cases, each of which also appear to 2 involve claims brought by the FTC under the Federal Trade Commission Act and are
3 therefore also distinguishable from the case at hand. See FTC v. Automators, LLC,
4 Case No. 3:23-cv-01444 (S.D. Cal. 2023); FTC v. THEFBAMACHINE, Inc., Case
5 No. 24-cv-06635 (D.N.J. 2024); FTC v. Ascend Capventures Inc., Case No. 24-cv-
6 07660 (C.D. Cal. 2024); FTC v. AWS, Case No. 18-cv-00442 (D. Nev. 2018).
7
8

9 5. Plaintiffs inexplicably argue that Jurisdictional Defendants have not proved 10 their case, yet formal discovery has not yet opened in this matter. The Court allowed 11 for expedited discovery on May 1, 2024. Dkt. 42. The Court's order was limited to 12 allowing Plaintiffs to conduct expedited discovery; therefore, Jurisdictional
13 Defendants must wait until the formal discovery period opens. So, Plaintiffs 14 arguments as to Jurisdictional Defendants not having proved their defense appears 15 based upon a deep procedural misconception.
16

18 6. Plaintiffs also appear confused by the fact that defendants may fully participate 19 in litigation to defend against claims raised, even after a preliminary injunction has 20 been entered. Due Process requires that the Jurisdictional Defendants be permitted the 21 ability to defend themselves and pay corresponding defense costs. In this matter, the 22 Preliminary Injunction itself contemplates that Jurisdictional Defendants will have 23 costs and attorney fees associated with this matter. Dkt. 49, pp. 9, 11.
24

26 7. Plaintiffs further spend an entire page discussing communications between 27 counsel. Statements and communications of counsel do not constitute evidence and 28

1 the attempt to reference those communications to show the truth of the matter is
2 violative of the Federal Rules of Evidence. FED. R. EVID. 801(C).

3
4 8. Puzzlingly, Plaintiffs go on to argue that Jurisdictional Defendants' lack of 5 funds to pay Mr. Banks' attorney fees somehow weighs against the release of funds
6 to pay legal costs associated with this litigation. Plaintiffs actively oppose any funds 7 being released to cover costs of arbitrations that predate this action and costs to 8 sustain this action yet argue that Mr. Banks' bills should be paid. The entire point of 9 this Motion to Release Funds is to allow Jurisdictional Defendants to meet their 10 obligations associated with the costs of litigating these matters.
11

13 9. At hearing, the Court indicated that it would allow Plaintiffs to obtain 14 reasonable fees and costs; however, Plaintiffs did not bother to move the Court to 15 award fees and costs. FED.R.CIV.PROC. 37(a)(5)(A). Rather than make a showing
16 before the Court and obtain an order, Plaintiffs' counsel "sent Jurisdictional 17 Defendants an invoice." Response to Motion to Release Funds, p. 17. Further,
18 because Mr. Banks failed to submit his invoice to the Court to obtain a ruling,
19 Jurisdictional Defendants had no opportunity to contest the reasonableness, 20 appropriateness, and/or necessity of the charges. Clearly, such an opportunity was 21 required since Mr. Banks' Declaration attaches a bill including over five-thousand 22 eight-hundred dollars ($5,800.00) of Mr. Banks' and Richard Nervig's personal 23 expenses (including a stay at the luxury Omni Hotel). While it may be common for 24 attorneys to contract with their clients to pay the attorney for travel time and 25
26
27
28

1 expenses, those charges cannot be described as attorney fees or court costs. Plaintiffs
2 may well have agreed to pay Mr. Banks and Mr. Nervig for the over five hours it took 3 to fly various places; however, flight time cannot be described as reasonable or 4 necessary attorney fees.
5

6 10. Plaintiffs argue that Jurisdictional Defendants should have agreed to Plaintiffs'
7 proposed motion to stay all other proceedings. Almost every action that Plaintiffs 8 propose to stay predates the instant case. Only one arbitration demand was made the 9 month after Plaintiffs filed this action.
10

11 11. Brett and Jennifer Sanner v. Yax Ecommerce LLC d/b/a Wealth Assistants LLC
12 was initiated in December of 2023. Tyler Davidson v. Yax Ecommerce LLC d/b/a
13 Wealth Assistants LLC; and Ryan Carroll was initiated in Miami Dade County
14 Circuit Court in January of 2024. Trevor Red v. Yax Ecommerce LLC d/b/a Wealth
15 Assistants LLC; and Ryan Carroll was initiated in Miami Dade County Circuit Court 16 in December of 2023, although arbitration has not yet been initiated. Stacy Rico and 17 Ben Brown v. Ryan Carroll was initiated in Miami Dade County Circuit Court in 18 December of 2023. Robert Harris v. Yax Ecommerce LLC d/b/a Wealth Assistants
19 LLC, and Ryan Carroll was initiated by arbitration demand in May of 2024.
20
22

24 12. While it is common for parties to care only about their own causes of action at 25 the expense of others, staying the claims of those other claimants after the time and 26 expense they have invested in their cases would work an injustice to them.
27
28

1 13. Plaintiffs argue that Jurisdictional Defendants have a duty to explain their 2 desires to obtain separate counsel as though the concept of attorney-client privilege is 3 entirely foreign to them.
4

5 14. Plaintiffs next argue that the Court intended that the $10,000 monthly spending
6 cap was to be applied to the Jurisdictional Defendants collectively. The sentence
7 quoted, but incorrectly cited, by Plaintiffs is clearly meant to address individual
8 defendants: “The Court is providing ample protection for the Jurisdictional
9 Defendants in allowing them to (1) pay reasonable attorney’s fees, up to $10,000 a 10 month, (2) pay personal and household expenses up to $9,000 a month, and (3) seek 11 leave of court for other reasonable expenses.” Dkt. 49, p. 9. It is evident that the 12 Court intended for each individual to pay monthly personal expenses of $9,000 per 13 party. The Court used the same language in allowing them to pay reasonable attorney 14 fees up to $10,000 per month; therefore, the most reasonable interpretation is that this 15 language also applies to each individual Jurisdictional Defendant. Just as the multiple 16 individual defendants could not be expected to live collectively on $9,000 per month,
17 Jurisdictional Defendants could not reasonably be expected to defend themselves
18 collectively on $10,000 per month.
19
21
22
23

24 15. Even if the Court’s language is vague, which Jurisdictional Defendants do not 25 believe it to be, the Court was clear at the preliminary injunction hearing that the 26 $10,000 was intended to be per party:
27
28

1 MR. SHIBLEY: As to the funds that are already held by the Texas firm in their
2 attorney-client trust account --

3
4 THE COURT: Yes.

5 MR. SHIBLEY: -- are those subject to the $10,000 limit?

6 THE COURT: No.

7
8 MR. SHIBLEY: Okay.

9 THE COURT: As long as they're being used for, you know, litigation
10 expenses.

14 CONCLUSION

15 Based on the foregoing and for good cause shown, Jurisdictional Defendants
16 respectfully request that this Court 1) strike and/or disregard paragraphs 1-14 and 18 17 of the Declaration of Nico Banks and, 2) grant Jurisdictional Defendants' Motion for 18 Leave to Release Funds for the listed Arbitrations, for the defense of this case, and 19 for such other and further relief to which the Defendants may show themselves to be 20 justly entitled.
